Objectives and activities

The objectives of the national organizations of CFPA Europe are to inform and educate people in order to improve safety and security, thereby preventing loss of life and the destruction of property and businesses.

CFPA Europe operates in four business areas

Guidelines

CFPA Europe develops and ratifies guidelines covering all aspects of fire prevention, safety, security and natural hazards. More than 40 guidelines are available free of charge on www.cfpa-e.eu.

Information

Knowledge development and sharing are important resources to identify new threats, trends, best practices and solutions. For this reason, all members of CFPA Europe are involved in supplying and sharing information and in spreading knowledge and expertise from CFPA Europe to their national audiences.

Network and Commissions

The members of CFPA Europe cooperate intensively and, by doing so, benefit from exclusive access to a wide network of fire prevention, protection and safety experts throughout Europe. There is also extensive cooperation between all members of CFPA Europe and other organizations in Europe and the rest of the world.

By participating in and contributing to the Training, Fire Safety, Security, Natural Hazard and Marketing Commissions of CFPA Europe, the members take an active part in shaping the future of safety and security in Europe.

Training and education

CFPA Europe recognises the need for adequate training in the fields of fire prevention, safety, security and natural hazards, and offers training and education courses in order to raise attention and public awareness.

The courses, which are organised by CFPA members, instruct and test students in theory and practice. These courses are uniformly shaped throughout Europe. Students who pass the examinations are awarded the well-established and widely recognised CFPA Europe Diploma and Certificate.
